

ALABAMA LEGISLATURE WANTS GOOD HIGHWAYS

Urges Congress to Bring About the Early Construction of "National System of Good Roads."

NECESSARY FOR PROTECTION
Pan-American Road Congress Also Recommends Hard-Surface Highway Along Pacific Ocean From Mexico to British Columbia.

WASHINGTON, October 16.—That military preparedness for defense includes extensive roads construction, viewed from the standpoint of the country as a whole, is made apparent in a resolution which comes from the Atlantic seaboard, the Pacific slope, and even the Gulf of Mexico.

Recently the Alabama legislature unanimously passed a joint resolution, prepared by John Craft, of the State Highway Department, and of course, assented to by Governor Henderson, which calls upon the President to take such steps as in his wisdom appears to be most expedient to bring about at the earliest possible moment the construction of a "great wall" of highways, extending from the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific coast, and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border.

At the recent Pan-American Road Congress in Oakland, Cal., among the resolutions adopted was one in which the congress recommended "to the Congress of the United States, that it should take steps to bring about the construction of a hard-surface highway along the Pacific Ocean side, from Mexico to British Columbia, and other national highways, to be used as military and commercial highways."

Earlier in the year at a meeting of the Maine Automobile Association, the chairman of the State Highway Commission contended that the first federal money spent in that State should be in connection with a system of roads paralleling the coast, to serve particularly in case of military necessity.

At the October meeting of the executive board of the American Automobile Association, with President John Wilson presiding, a resolution was passed at the suggestion of Chairman Diehl, of its national good roads board, "that the American Automobile Association, especially its good roads committee, should endeavor to bring about the construction of a hard-surface highway along the Pacific Ocean side, from Mexico to British Columbia, and other national highways, to be used as military and commercial highways."

BIGGEST ELECTRIC CAR FACTORY IS IN DETROIT

While Detroit is famed as the center of the automobile industry, it is perhaps not so well known that for years that city has held within its borders the largest factory in the world devoted to the manufacture of electric pleasure vehicles. The plant is that of the Anderson Electric Car Company, builders of the Detroit Electric. In this plant, covering eleven acres of floor space, are produced more than one-third of all the standard electric pleasure cars built today.

Not only is this factory the largest of its kind, but it is also the most completely equipped with up-to-date machinery and devices for securing accurate and rapid production. It compares favorably in equipment with any gasoline car factory that can be named.

Large production has made it both practical and wise to equip this factory with the best known facilities in automobile building. From the start the Anderson Electric Car Company was firmly convinced that a car that is actually manufactured is superior to a car that is merely assembled. The development of the electric car industry has proven this principle to be correct.

One of the features of the Detroit Electric factory is what is known as the "silence room." Here every motor is given a test before being actually placed in the car. The motor is attached to the rear mechanical system and set in motion. No motor that fails to operate in this test is allowed to pass.

"GUARDING OLD GLORY"
For tomorrow and Tuesday the Colonial announces F. O. Nielsen's photoplay, "Guarding Old Glory." Concerning this picture the management modestly says: "Guarding Old Glory" is the finest picture, patriotic and pre-war picture ever filmed. No red-blooded American will want to miss it, and no red-blooded American will sit still while seeing it. It is the first and only picture of its kind to receive the solid endorsement of government officials (see). It tells the truth by presenting in a vivid and striking manner the actual facts pertaining to Uncle Sam's army and navy at the crucial moment when the press and public are beginning to realize our unpreparedness in the event of war.

There is enough action in "Guarding Old Glory" to keep you on the qui vive every minute. There are scenes that will make your hair stand on end, your blood course through your veins, and make you glad you are an American citizen. Thousands of men are seen in the picture, hundreds and hundreds of horses, fleets of battleships, flotillas of torpedo-boats, submarine submarines, batteries of artillery, big guns, small guns, machine guns, aeroplanes, hydroplanes, bomb dropping and aerial fighting.

Wow! Hamilton Revelle, the well-known English actor, and Lois Meredith, a favorite of the screen, will divide honors on Wednesday and Thursday, when the Colonial's feature will be "An Enemy to Society," pictured from the story by George Bronson Howard. In the supporting cast will be seen H. Cooper-Cliffe, remembered as Nobody in "Everywoman"; Henry Bergman, William Cooper and Richard Carlyle. The story is a sort of modern "Robin Hood," in which the hero robs the rich and gives to the poor. He, too, is regenerated by love, and the story is rounded by the elements of mystery and intrigue.

On Friday and Saturday the distinguished actor, Frederick Derry, who was the Dr. Rameau in the picture of the same name, will be seen at the head of the cast presenting the Fox picture, "The Family Stain," founded on one of Gaboriau's detective stories. This is described by the management as "a masterpiece of strange and thrilling import."

THEA BARR APPEARS AGAIN

For Monday and Tuesday the management of the IS announces the return of "The Two Orphans," in which Thea Barr is featured, while the supporting company includes William Shaw, Herbert Brenon, Jean Sohier, B. L. Fernandez, Stella Hammerstein, Gertrude Berkeley, John Daly Murphy, Sheridan Block, Frank Goldsmith and Mrs. Cecil Raitch. This picture was produced by Herbert Brenon, who was sponsor for "Neptune's Daughter" and other big productions.

The management announces that on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday Paramount pictures will be shown, with a change of feature every day. Booking for these days had not been completed when the announcement was made.

On Saturday the famous emotional actress, Dorothy Donnelly, will be seen in the photoplay of the Northwest, "Sealed Valley," which is said to be a fine production.

VICTOR'S SERIAL IS BASED ON WALLINGFORD STORIES

The Victor announces that, beginning Monday, it will present the new and interesting serial photoplay, "The New Adventures of J. The cast is headed by Burr McIntosh, who will be the free-lance detective, Wallingford, while Max Flegman will appear as "Blackie" Daw, and Lolita Robertson, Eddie Connor and Harry Mahall will also be conspicuous. Each installment will be complete in itself, showing a separate adventure, but the whole forms also a continuous story.

Wife Has Right to Use Car.

The Missouri State Court has decided that a wife has the right to demand from her husband the use of his motor car during his absence from home. In a recent case where the husband, a traveling salesman, had stored his car in a garage, leaving instructions not let his wife use it, the court ordered the garage owner to release the car whenever the wife desired its use.

OHIO ELECTRIC CARS ARE EASILY TAKEN CARE OF

Those who are not familiar with the storage battery do not realize that it is as easy to charge the Ohio Electric battery as it is to drive this easily controlled car.

Marked improvements have been made in charging apparatus the past couple of years. The latest charging outfit not only work automatically, but also prolong the life of a battery. A complete charge can be given the battery in six hours, or a three-fourths charge can be given in two hours when a quick charge is desired.

To-day the owner of an Ohio Electric has little else to do but to insert the charging plug and throw a switch. The apparatus automatically cuts off the electric current when the battery is fully charged.

MOTOR CAR HAS 6,000 PARTS

The automobile of to-day has to meet requirements not expected of any other machine. It must be built accessible, easy to operate and as nearly foolproof as mechanical ingenuity can make it.

The question, "How much speed will it develop?" is seldom asked by the prospective buyer. He is more interested in the dependability, the ease of operation of the car, and in the service offered by the manufacturer.

The time will come when the automobile will give very little mechanical trouble; to those who are already acquainted with the care and adjustment of the machine that time is here. The average car consists of about 6,000 parts—some as many as 9,000. Its efficiency is directly dependent upon the harmonious working of all these parts, and in order that this end may be attained, first the car must be designed, not assembled; then, this design must be intelligently executed. But this is not all; the owner must be informed in regard to those things which enable him to obtain good service and maximum efficiency.

This does not mean that he must become an engineer, mechanic or repair man, but it does mean that he must know how to lubricate his car, how to care for it, and how to make minor adjustments.

THE DANGER OF ACIDS IN STORAGE BATTERIES

Here is a point that has been called to the motorists attention by the Willard Storage Battery Company, of Cleveland. They say that the majority of car owners do not seem to realize that they can ruin their battery by adding acid to it in order to make it stronger. The truth is, such a performance only adds strength for a little while, but at the same time damages the plates so that the whole battery's life is greatly shortened. The Willard people practice what they preach in regard to acid dangers, as even the screws with which their battery boxes are put together are lead-plated to make them acid-proof.

Things like this are worth remembering if you would save yourself a lot of trouble and expense.

Early in May they made their escape with two of their comrades. They had no money, and only carried a little food which they had secretly saved up from their daily rations. Their provisions lasted them four days, and then starvation stared them in the face. For five days they were without food of any kind. One of their comrades died from hunger and the other one they had to leave in a dying condition, as he was so weak that he could not walk any further.
